In memory of Professor Morikazu Ushiogi (1934-2023) a founder of GSID

On behalf of GSID Alumni Association, it is sad to announce that Dr. Morikazu Ushiogi, Professor Emeritus of Nagoya University passed away. He was a founder of Graduate School of International Development. He also served as the director of the university library.

Ushiogi-sensei was the pioneer of international development and education studies in Japan, as well leading academic on sociology of education, and comparative and international education. He had trained notable alumni and world leaders including Dr. Chet Chealy, Rector of Royal University of Phnom Penh, my classmate. As his student and co-researcher, I remember his active commitment to study on education and development in the fields. His academic legacy and achievement should be succeeded generation to generation among GSID people forever.

May his soul rest in peace. He is always in our hearts.
